WEEK 18

Pristinecreed.com/laythlist/

Leave Islam out of that myth!

All praise is due to Allah, the Lord of the Alameen. May His peace and blessings be upon our noble prophet Muhammad (salallahu alayhi wasalaam), his household, his companions and all those who follow his laid path till the day of judgement.

This just-concluded week will certainly be a week to remember among the Yoruba people of southwestern Nigeria, and among history aficionados generally. A video of the Ooni of Ife, Oba Enitan Ogunwusi went viral where he made some really weird and unfounded statements about the origin of the Yorubas. These statements of his would have gone unnoticed if he hadn't included Islam in those humongous myths of his! It might be unfortunate that the Yorubas have the history of their origins mostly shrouded in myths and cloudy histories, but to drag in the religion of Al-Islam, a religion with more than 2 billion practitioners whose adherents have been meticulously and empirically chronicling the history of their fortunes for more than fourteen centuries (even before that "Oduduwa" individual started existing!) into the enclave of unfounded Yoruba myths and blatant pagan hogwash is beyond what the Muslim public will swallow or ever tolerate!

A well-written post addressing this issue properly from the historical and the Islamic point of view have been sourced from the internet for your education and reading pleasure this week in shaa Allah. The nine other posts are also among the best and most beneficial floating around the internet this week. They have been gathered for your education and to benefit you in the knowledge of the deen. May Allah make it a true source of goodness.

Please contact us if you'll like us to follow your posts, or if you'll like to nominate someone whose posts can be followed by us. We'll be especially glad to have your nominations! We'll just recommend you inform the person you nominate as soon as possible.

"24 HOURS OF TERROR"

When they say “Mankind is now civilized, we have no need for religion (Islam).” Remind them of that summer night of 1977 in New York, when their civility was put to the test.

The New York Post Headline read, “24 Hours of Terror” No, it wasn’t a bomb. No, it wasn’t a Muslim invasion. It was the 24 hours mankind was left alone with itself. And what horrible company it was.

NY based Journalist, Geraldo Rivera, commenting on the people during the Blackout said,

“I never knew...the veneer of civilization was that thin – that people who were...law abiding - suddenly became this crowd of anarchists - in it for themselves. Jekyll and Hyde personality came out...Not, by any means, all minorities either...”

July 13th 1977, a Blackout lasted 24 hours in New York. Nothing but the electricity ceased. They were hours human beings felt free from consequences & accountability. The Blackout of 1977 brought the darkness of mankind to light.

“By about 9:30, the majority of NYC went dark and parts turned chaotic. Around 16,000 stores were looted, and more than 1,000 fires were set, according to contemporaneous reports. The total cost of the damage was estimated to be more than $300 million.”

The NY Post also had on the front cover,

“New York’s disaster adds up to most expensive man-made one the nation has ever seen.”

The Blackout should more appropriately be called the ‘Night of Light’ because it brought to light the dark nature of the people living in the most progressive & developed city in the US, NYC. It was a façade that, once it fell, revealed something monstrous. The nature of mankind: unheeled & consuming.

Mankind is incapable of life without authority, law, & order. And the greatest laws one ought to submit his or herself to, are the Laws of Allah. New York showed the world, in 24 hours, the extent of man’s civility. History condemns man’s claim of civility. An electric grid was all that stood between society and unbridled mayhem. It is frightening to know how little it took. And it only it took that little.

“Verily, [mankind] is oppressive & woefully ignorant” (Ahzaab: 70)

Ask yourself: What trap are you in?

Ask yourself: What trap are you in?

SUMMARY OF TRAPS OF THE SHAYTAN

The shaytān will attempt to divert you from Allāh’s religion in many different ways, and if he fails with one method, he will continue with a different method, as can be seen by the speech of the

Imām ibn al-Qayyim (rahimahullāh):

1- FIRST TRAP:

Evil of disbelief, polytheism and enmity to Allāh and His Messenger.

And if he is unable to get you to fall into this trap he goes to the next:

2- SECOND TRAP:

Evil of Innovation and opposing the Messenger's Sunnah. And this is a doorway to disbelief and polytheism.

3- THIRD TRAP:

Evil of Major Sins, with all their various types.

4- FOURTH TRAP:

Evil of Minor Sins, which if gathered together it's possible they will be the cause for a person's destruction.

5- FIFTH TRAP:

Evil of Busying Oneself with Permissible Affairs, for which there is no reward and no punishment associated with; however the consequences of this trap is losing out on potential reward by utilising energy and time with affairs that have no reward.

6- SIXTH TRAP:

Evil of Busying Oneself with actions of good (), however by way of performing them, actions which are of greater virtue and reward are not performed ().

Finally if the shayt ā n fails in the aforementioned levels he and his supporters from jinn and mankind don't cease to attempt to divert you and misguide you from All ā h's religion, not leaving you, even whilst you are on your death bed.

Summarised & Paraphrased from Bad ā 'i at-Tafs ī r al-J ā mi' li m ā Fassarahu al-Im ā m ibn Qayyim al-Jawziyyah, Vol.3 pgs. 452-452_

NB: The Shayt ā n tries to seduce, deceive and trap mankind one level at a time, starting with the most severe and working down. Seek refuge from the accursed Shayt ā n and be ardent upon the remembrance of All ā h and recitation of legislated supplications.

Ruling on delaying Fajr (dawn) prayer without a valid excuse?

حكم تأخير صلاة الفجر لغير عذر

س: مع الأسف إن بعض الناس لا يقوم لصلاة الفجر ولكن إذا قوم للوظيفة يقوم (ويؤخر لأجلها صلاة الفجر؟ (١)

ج: هذه بلية عظيمة، ومنكر عظيم وقع فيه كثير من المسلمين نعوذ بالله من ذلك، يقوم الشخص لحاجته الدنيوية ولحق المخلوق ولا يقوم لحق الله تعالى، ومثل هذا إذا تعمد هذا العمل يكون ردة عن الإسلام في أصح قولي العلماء؛ لأنه تعمد ترك الصلاة في وقتها، وقد قال الرسول صلى الله عليه وسلم: «بين الرجل وبين الكفر والشرك ترك الصلاة» (٢) رواه مسلم

. من أسئلة طلبة كلية الشريعة أثناء لقاء سماحته بهم عام ١٤١٦ هـ (1)

أخرجه مسلم في كتاب الإيمان، باب بيان إطلاق اسم الكفر على من ترك (2) الصلاة برقم ٨٢

مجموع فتاوى العلامة عبد العزيز بن باز رحمه الله ٢٩/١٧٩

Question. With great regret [we have to mention but,] some people do not get up to offer the Fajr prayer but they delay it until the time they go to work.

Answer. “This is a great catastrophe and an atrocity [which is unacceptable by Sharee’ah and for those of sound intellect] committed by many Muslims, and we seek refuge with Allāh from such. Such is the person who gets up for the sake of his worldly needs and for the sake of the creation but does not get up for the Sake of Allāh [Exalted be He]. If this is done deliberately, this is apostasy from Islām according to the more correct of the two opinions believed by scholars because the person intended to neglect performing prayer at its fixed time. The Messenger of Allāh ﷺ said: ‘Between a man, shirk [polytheism] and kufr [disbelief] is the abandonment of the prayer.’”

Aboo Naasir

Click on this picture to visit site

I do not think Ustaadh Aboo Naasir Ibraahim Abdurrauf may Allaah preserve him knows the extent of value and change his audios most especially the popular trio "Usool us Sunnah, Al-Arbāa'una an-Nawaawiyah and ash shamaa'ilu Muhammadiyyah" had in the lives of many youths and elders (my dad listens to it on his phone).

I practically know persons who by Allaah's aid became Sunniy or became knowledge and Sunnah thirsty through these audios.

I first came across his audios around 2009 when Abu Aameenah was a proud and expiring bachelor... His room is always sounding with these audios whether he is awake or asleep... One thing that first caught my attention was the clarity of the audio and Abu Ameenah's persistency in playing it and speaking about Abu Naasir, well i felt like who is this again? Because that is how Abu Ameenah almost indoctrinated us with Yasir Qadhi and AbduLlaah Faisal's lectures and at the end of the day they failed themselves not us.

I got a new laptop, embarrassed it with all available audios and I joined the queue of those whom their laptops sounds his lectures tirelessly until unconsciously I memorised more than 50% of the total audios word for word.

As usual, Abu Naasir became a sweetheart and Lollipop as I longed to see him, and Allaah crossed our paths in 2014 at Alausa secretariat for the beneficial KBC organised by DEEN COMMUNICATIONS.

Ladies and gentlemen... Brothers and sisters ... I do not doubt the fact that you will love Ustaadh Abu Naasir more and more when you stare at him only.

Even an unrepentant deviant will hardly not like the speaker when he listens to him.

Ok now... Here is my little point:

I am typically not against any one doing classes or giving talks or making posts in your local languages but please for Allaah sake! Consider those of us born and bred up in a city like Warri where we wake and sleep facing kufr and struggling to maintain our little Islam in a free of charge evil environment not having or having a negligible effort in the path of the desired knowledge.

Abu Naasir's audios have affected a lot positively across the whole country because there's state it gets to except it meets people irrespective of origin who will appreciate the message because it was understood.

May Allaah preserve Abu Naasir and his teachers.

May Allaah protect and strengthen all our teachers in every part of the country and the globe at large.

Aameen!

Re: Ooni of Ife, Oba Ogunwusi and the Origin of Religions

BBC
NEWS

YORÙBÁ

Click on this picture to visit site

By: Imam Ridwan Jamiu (My beloved brother and friend)

Recently, a BBC video interview with Oba Adeyeye Enitan Ogunwusi, the Ooni of Ife went viral on the social media. His Royal Highness pontificated in the interview that Yorubaland was the origin of Islam and Catholicism. He claimed, among others, that Oodua or Oduduwa was the founder of the major religions: Islam and Christianity. He asserted that Oodua was the first to worship Allah (Olodumare) in purity with unsewn sheets of cloth at the Mount of Arafat in Makkah, the sanctuary visited by Muslims today. White robes used by Muslim pilgrims in Makkah were ordained by Oodua who sent apostles for religious mission including Prophet Ibrahim, before the advent of Prophet Muhammad [peace be upon him]. He posited that Makkah is a sanctuary of prayer (Du'a in Arabic) which is from Ile-Adua or Ile Oodua (House of Oodua) because it belongs to Oodua. It was the Yoruba people who started these practices, but many unfortunately do not realise this and have even abandoned it, he added. May the Almighty God show us the right way, he concluded.

The brief but bizarre interview has generated uproar among many people especially the Muslims. Muslims have always been very jealous about their faith. Reactions to the interview varied as various as humans are. But the polite, intellectual and educative responses are always praiseworthy and edifying. The interview raised issues of paramount importance upon which rests the foundation of existence. It is a worthy endeavour to search for where lies the eternal truth. Failure to grasp the truth may spell one's eternal doom and perdition. Life is meaningless without living for the real purpose because of which it has been created. The issues raised in the interview will be discussed as follows.

One, Yoruba beliefs and practices are only passed on through oral tradition. Oral tradition, as opposed to oral and written history, is often subjective. This makes it difficult to apply academic methodologies in studying some historical claims. Therefore, all that Ooni said may not be true.

Two: Catholicism we learnt came from the Latin word 'katholikos' meaning universal. Kata "in regard to" + holos "whole" . It doesn't have Yoruba origin.

Three: the mention of Oodua as having worshipped Olodumare (which refers to Allah, the Almighty) in white robes at the plain of Arafat in Makkah is instructive. If Oduduwa had worshipped Allah at Arafat in Makkah and had met with Prophet Ibrahim [peace be upon him], as asserted by Oba Ogunwusi, then Oodua must have practiced the religion of Prophet Ibrahim. And that religion was the religion furthered by Prophet Muhammad because he also worshipped there and in fact, Makkah was his birthplace. Was Oodua a Muslim?

Four: a careful study of Prophet Ibrahim is facilitated by the Qur'an and the Bible. Both the scriptures have many things in common but scholarship agrees that the Qur'an has maintained its originality from the time of Prophet Muhammad but the Bible has been subject of edition and interpolation as is accepted by the academia. Be that as it may, both scriptures reverence Ibrahim [father Abraham]. He is the father of faith and a paragon (Qur'an 22/78, Q2/124, Q16/120-123, Genesis.17/3-6, Gen.18/18, 12/3, 17/20, Neh.9/7-8).

Abraham was neither a Jew nor Christians but an upright believer in one God, Muslim (Q3/67). (The words 'Christianity' and 'Judaism' were not divine; they were coined by people. They are not found in the scriptures). He worshipped only one God – Allah. He was never a polytheist or Idolater. He was never an animist. Oodua must necessarily have practiced what Ibrahim did if their meeting was anything to go by. But unfortunately, the Qur'an asserts unambiguously that Prophet Ibrahim and his first son – Ismail (Ishmael), not Oodua, built the Kaaba and established the rites of pilgrimage [Hajj] that is practiced till today (Q2/125-130, Q22/26-33). Prophet Muhammad followed this path and therefore, practiced the religion of Abraham, which is Islam. Islam means total submission to the will of Allah – the Olodumare, the uncreated Creator of all creatures. Prophet Muhammad never claimed to be the founder of Islam, but the final messenger of Olodumare sent to the whole world to establish the religion practiced by Adam, Noah, Ibrahim, Moses, Jesus and all true Prophets of God – Allah.

Five: according to the Wikipedia, 'whatever the case may be, it is now considered a historical fact that Oduduwa and his fellow settlers were outsiders from elsewhere that were absorbed by the aborigines of Ife.' It is thus clear that Oodua met some indigenous people at Ile-ife after his exodus from Makkah or Egypt [land of origin of Oodua is a subject of debate], and later became a dominant force and leader to the Yoruba people after gaining influence [or victory] over Obatala, the erstwhile leader of the 13 confederate Yoruba communities. It was argued that Orunmila, the progenitor of Ifa, was a consultant to Oduduwa. Perhaps, in his exercise of tolerance and respect, Oduduwa used to seek counsel from Orunmila on political matters being the latter a respected chief in his community even though he was an Idolater and animist.

Alternatively, Oodua was exiled from his homeland being an animist and found like minds among Ife people when he arrived with his retinue. But the battles between him and the aboriginals may upset this theory.

Claiming that Oduduwa or Obatala had stake in the creation of the earth or heaven, or that they were divines is baseless; it is only a creation of myth and folklore. Deification of Oduduwa as is obtained in the Yoruba pantheon was probably a sleaze and spiritual corruption people reverted to out of ignorance long after the demise of Oodua. This could not be far-fetched; Jesus, Buddha, Confucian and many great historical personages were deified by their unaware followers long after their earthly life. Great and exemplary people are meant to be emulated in good course; they are never to be adored or worshipped besides the almighty God.

The Ooni occupies a position of eminence. He should set up a committee of academic researchers on this matter if there is need. But Allah, the Lord of universe, has said in the Qur'an- His glorious revelation to mankind, "We revealed to you [Muhammad] the Scripture only to clarify for them what they differ about, and guidance and mercy for people who believe." Q16/64

In conclusion, I invite your Eminence to the worship of only one God-Allah, the Olodumare whom Oodua used to worship at Makkah. Abandon all the polytheist and animist practices and beliefs of the indigenous Yoruba people. Most of the practices are outdated and retrogressive. Let our people embrace technology and eschew dogmatism and fetishism. You are a personality in whom we see a great prospect. Embrace Islam and turn your face to Makkah in worship [where Oodua used to face and worship Allah] as the Muslims do. We will be well pleased with you to be our Oba in Yorubaland and a leader in Islam.

Allah says, “He prescribed for you the same religion He enjoined upon Noah, and what We inspired to you [Muhammad], and what We enjoined upon Abraham, and Moses, and Jesus: “You shall uphold the religion, and be not divided therein.” As for the idolaters, what you call them to is outrageous to them. Allah chooses to Himself whom He wills and He guides to Himself whoeverrepents.” Q42/13
He also said, “Whoever seeks other than Islam as a religion, it will not be accepted from him, and in the Hereafter he will be among the losers.” Q3/85

In his book, ‘Dictionary of Islam’ pg. 402, Thomas Patrick Hughes writes: “Islam does not profess to be a new religion, formulated by Muhammad (nor indeed is it) but a continuation of the religious principles established by Adam, by Noah, by Abraham, by Moses, and by Jesus, as well as by other inspired teachers, for it is said that God sent no fewer than 313 apostles into the world to reclaim it from superstition and infidelity. The revelations of these prophets are generally supposed to have been lost, but God, it is asserted, had retained all that is necessary for man’s guidance in the Qur’an...”

Charles J. Adams observes: “Islam has nothing of the character of innovation or of accident; it is not the peculiar invention of Muhammad in response to his own limited experience. Rather it is the eternal truth, the one right religion that was the religion of Adam and Abraham and of Jesus, as well as Muhammad, the religion that God has established for all men. In resolving to follow the straight path of Islam one sets his feet upon a way trodden by countless others, Prophets, saints, heroes, pious and learned men from the very beginning of the world. The effect of a man’s submission to God’s ordained way is to renew his contact with the eternal well-springs of being.” Charles J. Adams, ‘Introduction to Islamic Civilization’ edited by R.M. Savory, Cambridge University Press.

Al-Bara’ bin ‘Azib RAA reported: The Messenger of Allah (ﷺ) commanded us to do seven things:

1- to visit the sick,
2- to follow the funeral (of a dead believer),
3- to invoke the Mercy of Allah upon one who sneezes (i.e., by saying to him: Yarhamuk- Allah),

4- to support the weak,
5- to help the oppressed,
6- to promote the greeting of 'As-Salamu 'Alaikum',
7- and to help those who swear to do something to keep their oaths. [Al-Bukhari and Muslim].

Do you know the western world usually pay for their happiness the way we pay our NEPA bills?

And those are the people you are dying to copy??

Sad!

Their happiness is in their bottle of wine. Their happiness is in the occasional comedy show. Their happiness is in their credit cards!

They wallow in debt of wealth and deficit of emotions!

No true peace!

Ah!

They say religion is your opium. The religion that has kept me from wine, kept my intellect above the fog, kept me from debt and gave me tranquillity.

We don't commit suicide like them!

Winner!

Did you hear about the senior citizen who lost his life savings because of an email scam?"

"Wow, that's sad. He probably shouldn't have been replying to shady emails."

"Did you hear about the recent incident with the college student who got blackout drunk and his wallet was stolen?”

“Yeah, what do you expect when you’re drinking irresponsibly?”

“Did you hear about the kid who got murdered via drive-by shooting?”

“Oh, that was a sad story. He was mixing with gang members and a rival gang mistook him for someone else. We need to teach our youth the dangers of associating with gangs.”

“Did you hear about the small town in West Virginia that has filed for bankruptcy because their local economy collapsed and now thousands of people there have to abandon their homes?”

“Well, serves them right for voting for Trump!”

“Did you hear about the thousands who have died this year due to the opioid epidemic?”

“We have to educate people on the dangers of using these drugs so they can make better decisions.”

“Did you hear about the young woman who was sexually assaulted by a guy friend whose apartment she went to alone? Probably was a bad idea to be alone with a guy, right?”

“OH MY GOD, STOP VICTIM BLAMING, YOU DISGUSTING CREEP. YOU ARE PERPETUATING RAPE CULTURE, YOU RAPE ENABLER. YOU ARE THE PROBLEM.”

#FeministLogic

In all these other scenarios, it is a perfectly human, perfectly rational response to reflect on the causes of victimhood and note practical things victims could have done to minimize their chances of being taken advantage of and suffering their fate. Feminists don’t have any problems with this typical dialectic when it comes to any of these other instances of crime, victimization, and suffering. They only focus on one kind of victimization and impose ridiculous, irrational standards for how we should react to those cases. And they are completely oblivious to their inconsistency and double standards.

But if we reflect more deeply, we should ask: Why are feminists so keen to impose this double standard? Why do they want people to avoid discussing the causes of sexual assault in a holistic manner? In all other instances of crime, we recognize the importance of a holistic approach. A holistic approach addresses:

1. Practical steps to stop criminal behavior.
2. Practical steps people can take to avoid being victimized by criminals.

But feminists say, “No!”

Tell me: is there any other crime where the ONLY way to reduce it is to insist over and over again that people not commit the crime? Is there any other crime where suggesting practical steps to reduce people’s vulnerability to criminals is considered “promoting criminal culture,” etc.?

There is only one crime — sexual misconduct against women — where practicality and common sense go out the window. If you say anything about #2, feminists accuse you of being a “rape enabler” who is “perpetuating rape culture.” Why?

It is because they know that addressing #2 contradicts their cultural program. Since the 1960s, feminists have been telling women and men:

“Be open and explicit in expressing your sexuality!”

“Men and women should mix and flirt and have fun!”

“Casual sex is liberating!”

“Throw away your inhibitions, get out of your comfort zone, indulge your desires, own your sexuality!”

“Experiment with sex!”

“Soliciting sex from strangers makes you empowered!”

“Dress like a slut because modesty is something the patriarchy invented to control you!”

The sheer suffering, misery, and destruction caused by this feminist cultural program is incalculable. One of the many results of it: more sexual assault, more rape, more harassment. But feminists don’t want to take responsibility. And they certainly don’t want to modify their vile, destructive ideology. So the only strategy is denialism. They just deny that it is their teaching and their messaging that are the true origins of rape culture.

What’s really sad are the Muslim feminists. Like lemmings over a cliff, they militantly agree with their atheist feminist counterparts that Islam can’t help women. In reality, Islam’s insistence on hijab, insistence on male guardianship, insistence on ghira, prohibition of zina, prohibition of khalwa, prohibition of ikhtilat, etc., etc., all significantly reduce incidences of rape and sexual misconduct.

But Muslim feminists are not buying it. They fanatically agree with their atheist feminist friends that none of these Islamic guidelines are relevant to rape or do anything to meaningfully reduce sexual assault. According to them, the ONLY thing that can reduce rape is to tell men not to be rapists over and over again. They’re too dense to recognize the theological implications of this. The implication is that Allah did not institute a comprehensive system of morality and human relations to minimize the suffering of women. The implication is that there is no deeper, Divine wisdom behind Allah’s guidance that, when followed, protects women from assault.

And the other more subtle but damning implication is that Islam doesn’t really offer anything unique or different from what feminism has to offer in preventing rape. Think about that. These Muslim feminists are essentially saying that the man-made ideology of feminism is on the same level as Allah’s guidance in stopping sexual assault. Instead of recognizing the unique Divine wisdom that permeates our Sharia, they simply take feminist platitudes and try to Islamicize them. And wherever Islam does contradict the feminist narrative, they minimize Islam or outright reject Islamic guidance. This is the depth of their delusion.

Thankfully, the Muslim community is waking up to how toxic, irrational, and vile these feminists truly are.
